Advisory Committee on Setting Up Planning Commission to Report Soon

by Eugene Husik

Last December, after the sale of the undeveloped land to Webb & Knapp, an advisory planning committee was appointed by the city council to provide guidelines for the establishment of a permanent planning commission. The committee, after holding six meetings, is now in the process of making its final report and expects to submit it to city council within the next two weeks.

The committee was asked to come up with answers to questions such as the following: Does Greenbelt need a permanent planning commission? If so, should the commission be elected by the voters or appointed by council? Committee members interviewed indicated complete agreement on the need for such a planning commission, but did not commit themselves on method of selection or its composition.

What would be the powers and scope of the commission? Would it serve only in an advisory capacity? Would it be limited to matters referred to it by city council or would it be empowered to make its own investigations?

Would the committee be composed of volunteers or of paid workers or both? Some of the committee members felt that as Greenbelt grows there will be a need for paid workers serving as specialists.

If the committee's recommendations are accepted by city council and a planning commission is formed, the commission will not need to start from scratch. A master plan for Greenbelt was made in outline by the original city planners in the late 1930's and needs now to be brought up to date.

As shown on this master plan, Greenbelt's boundary on the west extends to the railroad. Much of this land between Edmonston rd. and the railroad will probably be zoned for light industry. To the south the city extends to the Good Luck rd. overpass spanning the Washington-Baltimore Expressway and encompasses the woodland between Edmonston and the Expressway. Most of this land has already been set aside for development as a park.

The advisory committee, now coming to the end of its work, was selected so as to represent both the three main Greenbelt organizations and the public. City manager Charles T. McDonald and Edgar Smith were appointed from city council; Manager Sam Ashelman, Jr. and Rexford Tugwell from Greenbelt Consumer Services; and Manager Paul X. Campbell and Hans Jorgensen from Greenbelt Homes, Inc. The public members were Charles Schwan, Lewis Bernstein, and Isadore Parker.

Memorial Day Thoughts

MEMORIAL DAY has come again as a reminder that the challenge of all who have lived and died for our ideal of freedom still stands, confronting successive generations of Americans.

It is a reminder that the struggle for enduring peace with liberty and justice for all is a continuing one. It is just as necessary for us today to give selfless devotion to this cause as it was for those we honor at hallowed gravesides on this memorial day.

Memorial Day is the sacred rallying day of this Republic. It connotes America as family. It is a clinging together, a joint quickening in the South, the North, the East and the West of our patriotic heart beats. Along with the tender placing of spring flowers, the unfurling of flags and the laying of wreaths, there is an inspiration for our posterity to follow in the footsteps of the gallant patriots who gave their first allegiance to America and backed it with the sacrifice of their lives in every war in this Nation's history.

The decoration of the final resting places of our hero dead was started in the South by the gallant ladies of the Confederacy. They placed flowers impartially on the graves of Southern fighting men as well as of Union soldiers. This fine act inspired both the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans to make such remembrance an annual day of memory and rededication. Today the ranks of both the Blue and the Gray have vanished. The mantle of leadership in Memorial Day observance has been taken over by The American Legion. Today Memorial Day is a national remembrance day. Our last four wars have made it this. Today members of the 3-war American Legion march in annual Memorial Day parades to the hallowed shrines of their departed comrades.

So fly the Flag in remembrance! Fly it in pride! Fly it with a new determination that the supreme sacrifices that have gone into the building and the preservation of our free Nation shall never have been made in vain!

Haslinger Ordination

The Reverend Joseph T. Haslinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Haslinger, 11-N Ridge, will be ordained to the Priesthood on Saturday, May 28, at Saint Matthew's Cathedral in Washington, D. C. Father Haslinger will offer his First Solemn Mass at St. Hugh's Church in Greenbelt on Sunday, May 29, at 12:15. A reception for friends and members of the parish will be held at Saint Hugh's on Sunday afternoon from 4 until 7.

Father Haslinger is the first resident of Greenbelt to be ordained to the Priesthood. His Ordination marks the completion of twelve years of Seminary training at Saint Charles and Saint Mary's Seminaries, Baltimore, and Saint Bonaventure University, New York.

After Ordination, Father Haslinger will be assigned to a parish in the Washington area by His Excellency, the Most Reverend Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington.

DUPLICATE BRIDGE

The final duplicate bridge game of the 1959-60 season will be played on Friday, June 3, at the Music Room of the North End School. The game will start promptly at 8 p.m. Players are reminded to bring bridge tables. Players without partners are invited, since the director will keep himself available to play with unattached players.

FUND DRIVE HAS ENDED

The News Review regrets an incident which occurred on Monday night when two young teenagers were apprehended for unauthorized soliciting for the News Review. Residents of Research rd. where the soliciting took place called the newspaper, which in turn notified the police. A description of the boys led to their being picked up for questioning, and they admitted the charges.

The News Review wishes to remind its readers that our 1960 fund drive is over, and any further soliciting by any person is unauthorized. Our fund drive is carefully planned so as to cover a specific period of time, and we have followed a policy of using responsible adult persons as collectors—generally neighbors in a court.

Police News Review

St. Hugh's reported the theft of ten quarts of altar wine stolen last Friday. A thirteen year old boy admitted taking five quarts. The boy drank two quarts of the wine, was hospitalized, pumped and recovered enough to attend school on Monday.

An apartment on Parkway was entered last week and $105.00 was reported stolen. Nothing else was disturbed. Police are still working on the case.

Last Wednesday, a man in a car stopped near a woman in town and exposed himself indecently. The woman noticed the license number of the vehicle and reported it to police. The man, apprehended that evening, admitted the charges. Both are Greenbelters.

Police were called to the scene of an accident on Glendale Road where a woman had lost control of her car. The car was overturned and the woman slightly bruised. The vehicle, a pick-up truck, was demolished.

The tornado scare last week brought a number of calls from residents to the Police department for advice as to protective cover. Police Chief Williams advises that the safest place in these Greenbelt homes is the closet under the stair case. Should disaster strike this area and the house be in danger, the staircase will probably stay standing and offer protection should the house be hit.

POPPY DAY SATURDAY

Poppy Day, May 28, will be sponsored locally by Greenbelt American Legion Auxiliary Unit 136.

Miss Evelyn Carr, Rehabilitation Chairman Unit 136, explained that the donations dropped into the coin boxes of the Auxiliary's volunteers are divided two ways. Half goes to their veterans rehabilitation fund and half to their child welfare program. These funds are made available throughout the year for the relief of distress among veterans and veteran's children.

Again this year in preparation for the observance of poppy day, students from the 6th grade of St. Hugh's School entered the American Legion Poppy Poster Contest. William Dunn judged the posters with first prize going to William Clark, second Ann Hill, third Ross Temple and fourth Lorriane Barr.

HIGH POINT PLAY

Former Greenbelter Robin Edmunds plays a major role in the High Point High production of "Arsenic and Old Lace" presented at the high school Friday and Saturday nights at 7:15 p.m. Four other Greenbelt students are on the production staff. These are Leslie Thomas, Susan Abramowitz, Tom Wyatt, Geoff Lammons, and Dona Kern. Tickets are $1.00 for adults and 75c for students.

New Members Must Wait Two Years In Selling GHI Homes at Profit

by Al Skolnik

In order to discourage speculative purchasing of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. units, the GHI board of directors voted unanimously last Thursday with two members absent to prohibit new members from reselling their homes at a profit within a period of two years from the date of purchase.

The board's action actually took the form of reinstating a provision which had been inserted in the original mutual ownership contract at the time of the purchase of the project from the Federal government in January, 1953. This provision was removed by the board after a year when the danger of persons buying GHI units for speculative purposes had subsided.

The restriction now being reinstated in the mutual ownership contract reads as follows: "For a period of two years after the delivery of Perpetual Use, the member shall not sell such Perpetual Use at a profit to himself."

As interpreted by management, this clause means that new members wishing to resell their units within two years after purchase will be able to recoup just their original cash outlay plus the amounts paid in monthly charges toward the principal (building up of equity). "Consideration will also be given to improvements," said GHI manager Paul Campbell, "provided they are substantial and of a nature as to be recognized as enhancing the market value of the property."

Campbell expects the new restriction to go into effect with mutual ownership contracts entered into after May 31, 1960. In the case of members moving from one GHI home to another, the two-year restriction will run from the date of membership and not from date of purchase of latest home.

Price Controls

The board also discussed, but took no action on, the problem of soaring prices of GHI homes. Campbell presented figures which showed that until 1958 price advances were most modest, but in the last two years have accelerated rapidly. This was especially true of the frame units.

Campbell expressed a fear that, unless checked, prices may reach a level where any drop in the real estate market might seriously hurt selling members, especially those who bought in at inflated values. This, in turn might reflect upon the marketability of GHI homes and damage the reputation of the corporation.

He stated a personal feeling that it might be more healthy for the corporation to have some measure of control over prices which would provide for recovery of equity paid plus a modest profit, rather than have "a few individuals (in relation to the long-term period of GHI) pick off the substantial profit, leaving later members to struggle even to recover the equity gain in their resale."

Several ways are open for the corporation if it wishes to establish some form of control over prices. One method would be to set a "blue book" value on units, such as is used in automobile appraisals. The listings would be for attractive, well-kept units and would permit a modest profit, say, 4% per year plus allowances for bona fide improvements.

While a seller would not be compelled to adhere to the "blue book," the mere existence of such a standard of values might tend to peg prices and avoid the tendency toward top dollar prices. The difficulty with a blue book is that it makes no differentiation for individual condition of homes.

Another way to control prices is to control the financing of down payments on resales. GHI's experience has been that most buyers are interested primarily in low monthly housing costs. The longer a loan is stretched out and the smaller the monthly carrying charges, the greater the tendency for buyers to ignore the extent to which the price of the unit has been inflated.

Conversely, if financing is made less liberal, purchasers become more particular about the price of the unit they are buying and prices may tend to stabilize. Using financing as a tool with which to control prices, however, requires the co-operation of all lending institutions, which may be difficult to obtain. Also, not all sales involve "second trusts."

Council Slices, Adds To 1960 City Budget

By Al Skolnik

Moving into high gear, the city council last week held three budget meetings at which they hacked off approximately $3,650 and added about $2,000 to the 1960-61 budget of $294,733. Among the major cuts were $725 for conferences and training, $470 for supplies, $320 in recreation expenditures, and $1,000 for swimming pool operations. Another $900 book savings was effected by the council's decision to meet the expenses of a planning commission and a possible referendum from miscellaneous funds.

The recreation savings was obtained by eliminating $200 for labor day trophies and $120 for transportation of children outside Greenbelt for roller skating. It was felt the latter would no longer be necessary with the construction of the new Community Recreation Building. Disclosure that the swimming pool was run at a profit last year and that this year's budget did not make full allowance for savings arising out of bad weather prompted the council to cut its budget $1,000.

Among the major budget items increased were $1,035 for overtime of department heads, $720 for increased city office space, and $240 for a swimming coach to give 12 hours a week instruction for 10 weeks. The last item was added as the result of a strong appeal from citizens. The swimming team was organized 2 years ago and proved to be a popular sport for more than 50 boys and girls from the ages of 8 - 18. The team took 3rd place trophy in the AAU meet at the end of the season.

The major budget items yet to be reviewed include sanitation and waste removal, highways, health conservation, other recreation programs, and bus service. The next budget meetings are not scheduled until after Memorial Day. The budget must be adopted by June 10.

Trash Collection

A preliminary consideration of the trash collection budget stirred up discussion at last Friday's budget meeting. Responding to a request from Greenbelt Homes, Inc., the council sought to determine whether the trash collection account had charged against it items that properly belong to other accounts and that should not be borne by the trash collection fee. Among the items in question were sidewalk and street cleaning at the center, leaf collecting, and repairs and replacement costs for certain heavy machinery that was used only part-time in trash collection duties.

Swimming Pool Readied For Opening on Monday

Workmen are already sprucing up the municipal swimming pool this week, getting ready for the opening of the new season next Monday. Both the building which houses the dressing rooms and the pool itself are newly painted.

The pool will open officially at 1 p.m. Monday, Memorial Day — the customary opening date for the city pool. For the remainder of the school term, the pool hours will be from 4 to 8 p.m. on weekdays, and from 1 to 4:30 and 5:30 to 8:30 on Saturdays and Sundays, according to Recreation Director Warren Leddick. The statement of fees for the pool for this year is published elsewhere in this issue.

If 20 percent of the voters sign the petition, the referendum will be held within the following 50 days. Otherwise, the amendments automatically go into effect.

"I wouldn't want to do without the Yellow Pages"

says WILLIAM M. WRIGHT, Silver Spring, Md., jeweler

Started in 1936, Wright's Jewelry has grown from a husband-and-wife shop to a busy store with 18 employees. And for 22 years, Mr. Wright has advertised in the Yellow Pages. Today he estimates that 25 to 30 of the telephone calls he gets each day stem from his ad in the Classified Telephone Directory.

How do the Yellow Pages bring in so much business? Mr. Wright gives these reasons:

Complete local coverage—the Yellow Pages carry your advertising into almost every home, office and public place in your area!

On-the-spot impact—the Yellow Pages put your message in the hands of your customers, at the time they want something you sell!

First contact for newcomers with the stores of their new community is the Yellow Pages. Old customers, too, use the Yellow Pages as a memory-refresher.

"When I think how little it costs, and how much I get in return," says Mr. Wright, "I know I can't afford not to advertise in the Yellow Pages."

Local Bowling Alley Gets New Management

Ned Campbell, a veteran of 22 years' experience in the bowling business, has recently taken over the ownership and management of the local bowling alleys. Since last December Campbell has shared ownership with Donn Liston of the local concern. Campbell took charge of the entire operation two weeks ago. He is assisted by George Maganelli, one of the prominent bowlers of the D. C. area. Besides the local business, Campbell also owns a bowling alley in Rockville. Future plans in the way of services to area bowlers, according to Campbell, include free instruction courses on Wednesday evenings for beginners throughout the summer months. He also plans to bring outside bowlers to Greenbelt frequently for match games and similar events.

Campbell foresees still further improvement in the physical appearance of the property, which has recently undergone an extensive expansion and modernization. The first order of business, he pointed out, will be to replace entirely the ten gutters and alleys of the original section of the house. All 16 of the alleys will be resurfaced eventually. Cleanliness will be the keynote of his management of the business, Campbell stressed.

As an indication of his own high hopes for the further development of the property, Campbell asserted, "We're going to make this the showplace of bowling in the Washington area."

New City Directory, Long Awaited, Due Soon
